1913 ENCAMPMENT OF SOLDIER BOYS

At Middlesboro Was An Enjoyable One.

IDEAL PLACE FOR THE EVENT

The Hartford Company Made a Splendid Showing In Several Ways.

WON A HANDSOME SILVER CUP

The Annual Encampment of the Kentucky National Guards was held this year at Middlesboro, Ky., from July 16th to July 23d inclusive. There were present three regiments of thirty-six companies with nearly two thousand members.

It would be hard to find a better location for an encampment than Middlesboro. The city is situated in the extreme southeastern corner of the State, and at Cumberland Gap. There are many points of interest in and around the city which added considerably to the pleasure and profit of the encampment.

Cumberland Gap is the natural roadway used by the early settlers coming from the old settlements along the Atlantic coast in Virginia and the Carolinas over into our own State. It is the trail of Daniel Boone and the doorway from the East into the West. Those who had read "Aunt Jane of Kentucky" were interested in finding that they were treading over the scenes that "Aunt Jane" tells us so much about. On each side of the mountain facing the gap are the remains of the old breastworks thrown up by the forces of the Civil War—on one side the Federal breastworks, on the other side those of the Confederates. The trenches are still plainly to be seen, and the whole battle scene stands out in bold relief. Many of the larger trees stand there like battle-scarred veterans and bear upon themselves the marks of war.

One of the highest points in that locality, known as the Pinnacle, is of considerable interest, and from that point one can get a splendid view of the country for many miles in every direction, covering certain parts of at least five States. With the aid of field-glasses the Blue Ridge Mountains of Virginia are within easy range of the vision, and the citizens of Middlesboro point out with pride the "Old Pine," famous in Jno. Fox, Jr.'s story "The Trail of the Lonesome Pine." On the opposite peak across Cumberland Gap is the location of the cornerstone of the three States of Tennessee, Virginia and Kentucky. These places were frequently visited by the "soldier boys."

The citizens of Middlesboro and vicinity are splendid, hospitable Kentuckians. They seem to live in an atmosphere of vigor, healthfulness and romance. There is every phase of social life, from the daring, unlearned mountaineer to the highly educated and elegant citizen. The hand of civilization has pierced the mountains with tunnels, has cleared up the mountain sides and built farm houses and planted orchards and fields where it seems almost impossible for men to go. Several mines are there and a splendid people live there, happy and contented.

Company H made a splendid showing both in drill, athletic events and general conduct. The highest compliments of the highest commanding officers were bestowed upon Company H for its splendid appearance upon parade. A silver cup was awarded the Company as a trophy for winning the highest number of points in the athletic contest. Those scoring points in this contest were Corporal Eugene Wedding, in the foot race, first prize; Corporal Marvin Hoover, in the equipment race, second prize; Privates Eliza Murphy and Joe Craven in putting up a dog tent, first prize; best drilled man in Third Regiment, Sergeant W. D. Gray, first prize. In each of these contests there was an individual prize in addition to the points awarded the Company which counted on the silver cup.

The members of Company H without a single exception made a splendid record of soberness and good behavior. There was not a single instance of real unseemly conduct. The only thing that any member objected to was the amount of pay received. Our pay seemed to have had "the tariff taken off." With that exception every member of the Company is ready to say that he had a pleasant and profitable time.

BELOVED WOMAN DIED AT HOME OF HER SON

The Owensboro Messenger of Sunday says:

Mrs. Susan Frances Wells died at 7:30 o'clock Saturday evening at the home of her son, C. W. Wells, 319 E. Seventh street, of a complication of diseases incident to her advanced age. Mrs. Wells was a highly esteemed woman, eighty-three years of age, and her many friends will learn with regret of her demise. She was the widow of James Williams Wells, who died February 3, 1874. But one son survives her, C. W. Wells. Rev. D. E. Yelser, of Utica, and A. R. Yelser, of Owensboro, were brothers of the deceased and two sisters, Mrs. Martha Hansford, of Colorado, and Mrs. Mary Howard, of Daviess county, also survive the deceased.

The funeral will be held at 4 o'clock this afternoon at the residence of Mr. Wells and conducted by the Rev. E. E. Bomar, pastor of the First Baptist church, with interment following in Elmwood cemetery. The following friends and neighbors of the deceased will act as pallbearers: O. C. Haynes, John W. Howard, George W. Jolly, J. W. Jones, Dan Mayfield and W. E. McDonald.

Note—The deceased was a sister of Mr. F. W. Yelser, deceased, a former well known citizen of Hartford, and aunt of Miss Sue Yelser, Mrs. N. A. and A. C. Yelser, city who, together with the latter's wife, attended the funeral in Owensboro Sunday. Miss Sue had been in attendance at the bedside of her aunt a week before her death.

AGREEMENT RATIFIED —WILL GO INTO EFFECT

The Owensboro Inquirer of Sunday says:

One of the most important meetings held by the Daviess County local of the American Society of Equity took place in Owensboro on Friday afternoon. The meeting was held at the court house behind closed doors, and there was a good attendance present.

The agreement made at the district meeting held at Hartford some weeks ago was ratified, and will be put into effect in all the counties throughout the district. The agreement is that no one county in the district will sell and deliver its tobacco until all the counties have sold. This was done because of the dissatisfaction of the manner in which the tobacco was disposed of last fall, by which some counties sold and delivered their tobacco, while Ohio county was held back, and with much difficulty and inconvenience to the farmers was the sale finally made.

Notice.

Sealed bids will be received on the county farm for the oil and gas rights up to 12 o'clock noon, Saturday, August 9, 1913. Right reserved to reject any and all bids.

STORY OF THE BATHROOM ANENT PRESENT DROUGHT

Concerning the present drought, a good joke is told on two of Hartford's most estimable citizens—man and wife, both elderly people. It happened a few days ago when the drought was the general topic and everybody was wishing for rain.

It seems that a son of the householder, after finishing his bath upstairs after supper, had neglected to turn a certain faucet off entirely. This left a small stream of water running which after awhile flooded the floor and leaked through into a room below.

Awhile after going to bed the good wife was awakened by the sound of dripping water, which she took to be rain outside. The news was too good to lose expression in words.

"Thank the Lord," exclaimed the grateful wife, as the downpour continued. Her husband awakened from a doze by her remark, replied:

"Yes, praise the Lord, that does sound good."

Then both were lulled to sleep by the dripping water. The next morning members of the household were horrified upon entering a room beneath the bathroom to find the plastering all off the ceiling and evidences as if a cloudburst had passed over during the night.

But they all took it as a joke, as no very great damage was done.

MISTOOK A MAN'S HAND FOR SQUIRREL'S ANTICS

Shelbyville, Ky., July 26.—John Floyd was accidentally shot and possibly fatally wounded yesterday afternoon about 5 o'clock by Leslie Thompson, a motorman on the Louisville and Interurban, who was hunting on Newton Griffith's farm near Simpsonville.

Floyd is a cripple, who makes his living by bottoming chairs. Yesterday afternoon he was stripping bark from trees on Mr. Griffith's place for use in his trade. Thompson saw the branches of the trees shaking and fired at Floyd's hand, which he mistook for a squirrel. The shot peppered Floyd from head to foot and three of them are believed to have penetrated the stomach and produced internal injuries. He was removed to his home near Veedale, where he lives with his father and mother. His condition this morning, while serious, is more hopeful. Floyd is about thirty years of age and unmarried. Thompson is about forty years old and has a wife and one child. His home is in Louisville. No arrests were made, as the shooting was plainly an accident. The two men are good friends of long standing.

Died on Her Birthday.

At the family home in Ohio county, July 24, Martha A. Whiteman, wife of W. H. Whiteman, died, just 65 years from the day of her birth, on July 24, 1848.

She is survived by her husband and one son, Charles F. Whiteman, besides other relatives and a host of friends.

She was a devoted wife and mother, a sympathetic friend and neighbor, ever ready to assist when or where assistance was needed.

Mrs. Whiteman formerly lived in Owensboro.

PARTING OF WAYS IS NOW APPARENT

In Uncle Sam's Attitude Towards Mexico.

SITUATION IS VERY SERIOUS

Sentiment in Congress Drifts In Direction of Armed Intervention.

FOREIGNERS DEMAND ACTION

Washington, July 26.—The report of Ambassador Henry Lane Wilson on the situation in Mexico which was asked for by the President, was finished this afternoon at 5 o'clock and was sent to the President to-night.

The report of Mr. Wilson comprises his views as to an effective remedy for conditions in Mexico, and this is substantially that the neutrality laws be strictly and adequately enforced and by that enforcement the revolution will disintegrate and peace be restored. This is the proposition of Ambassador Wilson, originally made to the Taft administration and which President Taft adopted by sending a division of the army to the frontier.

But that the United States must at once take a firm and decided stand developed to-day at the series of conferences between Secretary Bryan, Ambassador Wilson and his commissioner, Mr. Del Valle, and between the Secretary and the Foreign Relations Committee.

In addition to the solution offered by the Ambassador, this Government has left in its final policy the following alternatives:

Recognition of the Huerta Government, with the moral support of the United States in restoring order.

Recognition of the Sonora revolutionists headed by Pesqueria and Mayoutena, as belligerents and supporting them against the Huerta regime.

Intervention, which means war. Mediation, which Ambassador Wilson says also means war, as Huerta will not accept any mediation.

The conference eliminated Carranza as a factor to be considered in the Mexican situation. All the reports reaching the State Department from its confidential sources brand Carranza as an impossibility for the Presidency, and eliminate him from the situation so far as this Government is concerned.

The necessity for this Government to at least adopt a definite policy does not arise from any change of conditions in Mexico itself.

What is now forcing the hand of the United States is the attitude of the European Governments whose representatives in Mexico recently joined in representations against the long-continued Mexican disorders.

The United States is being warned by both its official and private agents that if this Government longer pursues a waiting policy, it soon may be face to face with a break with the world Powers on the Monroe doctrine.

Whether the President has changed his mind within the last three or four days is not known, but it is certain that the idea is crystallizing that Congress itself, which is the only power having jurisdiction of the matter, will order intervention.

Confederate Pardon.

Washington, July 26.—To prolong the life of George W. Nunley, a Confederate veteran, dying in the Paducah, Ky., jail, President Wilson to-day commuted to expire at once the prisoner's one-year sentence for making a false claim for a pension. He was sent to jail in November, 1912, for claiming a pension as a Union soldier. Physicians reported he would die soon if confined longer.

KILLED BY ELECTRIC SHOCK IN INITIATION

Birmingham, Ala., July 24.—Donald A. Kenney, a chauffeur, and Christopher Gustin, an iron moulder, were killed to-night by an electric shock at the local hall of the Loyal Order of Moose. An initiation was in progress, and it is said that an electric shock is part of the ritual. In some way not yet explained the men received too much current.

It was at first thought they had only fainted, and they were hurried to the hospital, but died shortly afterward.

Local officials have not yet made a statement regarding the occurrence.

QUIGG PLANT DESTROYED BY FIRE AT LIVERMORE

Livermore, Ky., July 25.—The leading factory of the Quigg Manufacturing Company, located on Green river at this point, was totally destroyed by fire on Thursday morning. The fire was discovered about 8 o'clock in the dry kiln, and although there was a bucket brigade of more than 150 men carrying water from the river, they were unable to save the building. The loss is placed at about $10,000 with about $2,500 insurance.

The factory was running full time and employing about twenty-five men. It is not known whether or not the factory will be rebuilt.

YOUNG STENOGRAPHER ACCIDENTALLY DROWNED

Frankfort, Ky., July 26.—Miss Catherine Faxon, stenographer to Barksdale Hamlett, Superintendent of Public Instruction, was drowned in the Kentucky river late this afternoon about a half mile above Frankfort. Miss Elizabeth Culter, stenographer in the office of Miss Fannie Rawson, secretary of the Kentucky State Library Commission, was drowning when rescued by George Enright, law clerk to Judge Settle, of the Court of Appeals.

The two girls, who could swim very little, were on a sand bar across the river from the Lawrenceburg pike, and stepped into an off-set. Enright, who had taken them across in a canoe, was in the middle of the stream, riding the waves in the wake of a launch. He observed Miss Culter sink and swam to her rescue. While he was taking her ashore Miss Faxon sank and never came up.

Several men saw the rescue of Miss Culter, but none apparently saw Miss Faxon go down. It was fifty-five minutes before divers located her body. She was brought to the bank and unavailing efforts were made to revive her. Miss Faxon was 23 years old and came here from Hopkinsville. Her mother

THE OLDEST WOMAN IN CALHOUN PASSES AWAY

Mrs. Martha Hicks died at her home in Calhoun last Friday afternoon at 4 o'clock. Death was caused by infirmities incident to old age and following a week's illness.

Mrs. Hicks was in her 89th year, and had lived in Calhoun and in the same house for 60 years. She had been a widow for 30 years and had lived comparatively alone in the little cottage on 4th street, where the neighbors and friends have given every comfort possible.

The funeral was held at the Methodist church Saturday afternoon, conducted by Rev. J. T. Cherry, and the interment followed in Oak Hill Cemetery.—[Calhoun Star.

SECOND CONVICTION IN THE CALLAHAN CASE

Winchester, Ky., July 26.—The jury in the case against D. F. Deaton returned a verdict of guilty at 7:45 o'clock to-night and fixed his punishment at life imprisonment.

The case against Deaton, who was charged with having entered into a conspiracy to bring about the death of Ed Callahan, went to the jury at 5:20 o'clock this afternoon.

Mrs. Callahan, widow of Ed Callahan, and Mrs. Lillian Gross, Callahan's daughter, who had been vigorous in the prosecution, sat quietly and showed no satisfaction at the outcome. Deaton is the second of eighteen defendants to be convicted. Andrew Johnson got a similar sentence on Tuesday.

HIGHER COURT AND WEBB LAW

What the Said Law Really Stands For.

NOT A PROHIBITION MEASURE

Law Never Contemplated Prohibiting Shipment For Personal Use.

WHAT THE AUTHORITIES SAY

Statements to the effect that the Court of Appeals has knocked a hole in the Webb Bill, or practically destroyed it, are common in the newspapers over the State. There seems to be a popular misunderstanding of the provisions of the bill. Stripped of circumlocution, its provisions are as follows:

"That the shipment  of intoxicating liquor  from one State  into any other State  which is intended by any person interested therein to be received, possessed, sold or in any manner used, either in the original packing or otherwise in violation of any law of such State  is hereby prohibited."

The act does not prohibit, as seems generally supposed, all shipments of intoxicating liquor from one State into another, but it merely prohibits a shipment which is intended by any person interested therein to be received, possessed, sold or used in violation of the law of the State.

Mr. Webb, the author of the bill, has stated its purpose.

This bill has been criticized by some of our temperance friends, because it does not undertake to prohibit the shipment of whiskey for individual use.

"As long as the Supreme Court holds that liquor is a legitimate subject of commerce, as long as men have an appetite for liquor, and as long as the State does not prohibit the drinking of whiskey, I do not think a law will be passed prohibiting the shipment of whiskey for a man's own personal use. The bill does not in anywise affect the right of a man to buy whiskey for his personal use," says Mr. Webb.

Senator Kenyon, who fathered the bill in the Senate said:

"This bill, if enacted, would not be a law to bring about prohibition. It would not be a law to stop personal use of intoxicating liquors, nor to prohibit the shipment of intoxicating liquors for personal use, or to stop the use of intoxicating liquors for sacramental purposes.

"There is no practical trouble with the personal use question. There is no attempt on the part of anybody to construct a law that shall prevent personal use or prevent shipment for personal use, and this bill does not do so."

The Rev. E. C. Dinwiddie, the Washington representative of the Anti-Saloon League, said this of the bill:

"This bill of itself interferes with no man's rights to import intoxicating liquors for the purpose of personal consumption.

"A man can have liquor shipped in and delivered at his residence for his own personal use."

The decision of the Court of Appeals was rendered in a case where it was agreed as a fact that the whiskey was shipped to a consignee to be sold or used in violation of law of the State. The Court of Appeals did not knock a hole in the Webb bill, but it simply construed the bill as it was construed by its author and the Washington representative of the Anti-Saloon League. The State of Kentucky has never passed a statute making it unlawful to receive or have in possession intoxicating liquor for one's own use. —[State Journal].

HUMAN LIFE'S CHEAPNESS —A SAD COMMENTARY

Human life is very cheap. A Nashville, Tenn., woman went to a man's place of business and killed him. She was sentenced to spend five days in jail. If there is to be a single standard of morality, why should the "unwritten law" protect only one of two partners in sin? If the man had killed the woman is there any doubt that he would at least have been given life imprisonment? Does it make her sin any less to kill the man? The judge and jury in the case of the Nashville woman evidently thought her offense was less than that of a man who staggers in the street as a result of drinking whiskey. The charge of "drunk on the street" usually means "thirty days" if the defendant is too poor to pay a small fine. But to kill a partner in sin, if the slayer be a woman, is not, it seems, such a grave offense. If the woman was deserving of any punishment at all, surely she deserves more than a week-end in jail. —Savannah (Ga.) News.

I appreciate very highly all that my friends have done for me, but must now leave the campaign with them, assured if everyone does his best we are sure to win. A WOMAN BLIND FOR FIFTY YEARS

Amazed At Scenes Which Eyesight Brought.

OPERATION RESTORED SIGHT

Sees Children For the First Time—Only Known By Touch Before.

SHE NEVER SAW HER HUSBAND

Chicago, July 25.—Mrs. Mary J. Welsh, the Michigan woman whose sight was restored by an operation after fifty years of darkness, today had a day of varying emotions at her home near Hillsdale, Mich. Now a feeble woman of sixty-six, she was sixteen when she last gazed on the faces of friends and relatives. Though she married at twenty-two, she never saw her husband. He has been dead for a number of years.

Almost all the friends she knew in her girlhood are dead or have moved away. Even the landscape had changed. She could recall little. The road and a hill appeared familiar. Her own home had received alternations which she familiarly knew by touch and step, yet when the home dawned on her vision it amazed her.

There are four of her six living children now grown men and women in the neighborhood. Two live in other States and two lie in graves beside her husband. She was overwhelmed with emotion at the sight of her family. She knew the faces by sensitive fingers, but had never seen them until to-day.

After the first recovery from her emotion she asked to be taken to the graves of her husband and children. In the little country cemetery she looked upon the epitaph of the man she married and had never seen. Returning, she spent the day in darkened room. Her eyes are not yet sufficiently strong to bear continuous light.

Mrs. Welsh's trip to the Chicago Hospital, where the operation was performed, had its inception in a chance visit made into Michigan a few months ago by the chaplain of the hospital, the Rev. Dr. M. W. Satterfield. In Hillsdale, Dr. Satterfield delivered an address. He told of the charitable work done by the hospital every year. The white haired blind woman heard him. At the close of the services she groped her way forward and clutched the minister's hands.

Yours truly,
30t2 LON SMITH.
(Advertisement.)

"Can you do anything for me?" she asked. "I only want to see my babies before I go. I have been praying—maybe" —

In the fear that the operation for a double cataract might not prove successful, the authorities at the hospital kept it a secret when it was completed. Mrs. Welsh, her eyes heavily bandaged, was taken to a dark room and the entire hospital staff gathered about her. One by one the eye wrappings were removed.

The last bandage was taken off. A threadlike ray of light was let flicker through the blackness. Mrs. Welsh was told to open her eyes. The muscles of the lids were weak, but she managed to open them and the first ray of light in a half century startled her.

Two days ago, at the completion of the operation, the woman was taken down to the loop district by one of the hospital nurses. She stared with awe at the huge buildings.

"I can't believe they are real!" she whispered. "The last buildings I saw were little farm houses back in Michigan. God made these huge piles of rock that you call skyscrapers. Little men never could have done it."

The Growth of the U. S.
In 1790 the population of the country was 3,925,625, in 1910 91,722,666, the growth being in the last 10 years about 16,000,000. The area in 1790, in square miles, was 417,170, in 1910 over 3,000,000. Number of miles of railroads in 1790 none; in 1910 250,000. Number of post-offices in 1790, 75; in 1910, about 60,000. The population of New York City in the year 1790 was 49,401; in 1910 it was 4,766,833. Thus it will be seen that New York City alone in 1910 had a much larger population than the entire country had in the year 1790. —[New York Times].

A CARD.

To the Democrats of Ohio County: — In presenting my claim for the Democratic nomination for County Court Clerk, will say, if nominated, I will use all honorable means to secure the election of myself and the entire ticket in the final race at the November election. If nominated and elected, I will do my utmost to make the whole people a painstaking and faithful official as I would have done had I been successful in my former race for this office, when the whole ticket went down in defeat in the Republican landslide in the year 1905.

I feel that we have a much brighter prospect in store for our nominees, whoever they may be, at the coming November election and would certainly appreciate it very

The weeds and rubbish are almost "taking" the streets and sides of Hartford in many places. The city "dads" seem to not care.

The Bull Moose and the Elephant have been engaged in a lively shindy in Louisville lately. The scrap was almost worse than it was last fall.

Lost, strayed or stolen—one King road drag. Finder will please return to any one of the Ohio county magistrates and ask him what to do with it.

"What has become of the old barrel-stave hammock?" asks an exchange. Why, it probably was used for kindling to heat the water to wash one of the present generation's grandmother, when she was a baby.

The Fordsville Argonaut, in introducing Mr. S. A. Bratcher to the voters of Ohio county, says: "Mr. Bratcher lives on a farm near Hartford." This is news to us. We were not aware that the town of Hartford was divided up into farms.

We now need safe and sane auto driving throughout the country as much as we need a safe and sane Fourth of July—more so, according to frequency of the event. Let the autoists join with the common citizenship in the accomplishment of this good purpose.

The coming primary election has created only mediocre interest in this county, so far, but the day will probably be one of the biggest the county ever saw when it arrives, as there is considerable rivalry among the candidates of the two parties. Let us hope that it will pass off without any sort of trouble.

On next Saturday will occur the big State Primary Election throughout Kentucky and no doubt it will be a great day. It will be the first event of the kind ever pulled off in the State and much interest is centered in it. In this respect the day will probably equal the regular November election. It is to be hoped that the day will pass off peacefully and that the best men of the two dominant parties will be nominated for the respective offices. Then let a clean campaign follow and the voters will have a fine chance for the exercise of their suffrage.

The slogan is: "Swat the fly—kill him!" because, it is said, this insect carries microbes about his person. But is a fly less dangerous after he is dead, unless his carcass is immediately burned? Do the microbes continue to live on his corpse and get scattered in the air? These questions naturally suggest themselves at seeing thousands of dead flies lying on fly paper and other thousands cooped up in fly cages or traps. Does it do any good to catch or kill a fly, unless he is immediately annihilated, so far as microbes are concerned?

It seems the general consensus of opinion that Uncle Sam will finally have to go over into Mexico, set things aright and assume a sovereignty over that country which will assure a peaceful and progressive sort of government. After many years of internecine strife and petty wars, it is clearly shown that Mexico will now never get to the point of governing itself. The various warring factions there will not permit it. But Uncle Sam's job is not nearly so easy as it sounds or looks. It involves questions of international law which are complex and the final happy result would be slow of completion.

The newspapers just now are full of advice to the voters to nominate "a good, straight ticket, of good men," and assuring their readers that with such a ticket, "victory will certainly be ours." This is good advice, and the sentiment is also good. But who is to be the judge, among many candidates, as to whom of the lot, embodied as a whole, would constitute a "good, straight ticket?" There are possibly nearly as many opinions as there are voters, and while they are all good men, many would not agree as to exactly the same choice. We are resting our faith in the ability of the Democratic voters to make the proper choice. However, it is very important that each Democrat in the county go to the polls next Saturday and vote.

Died Near Habit.

Mrs. Lilly E. Taylor died in the Habit neighborhood Saturday afternoon about 12:30 o'clock of tuberculosis. She was 27 years old, and is survived by her husband and three small children. Mrs. Taylor was a kind and devoted mother and had a great many friends. She was a member of the Owensboro Lodge of Royal Neighbors.

Thanks, Colonel.

The Hartford Republican in its issue of Friday says:

Under the head, "Baby's Cradle" Editor Matthews, of The Herald, this week's issue, has a splendid editorial which no one can read without being benefited or without feeling a heaviness near the heart strings.

A Card.

To the Democratic Voters of Ohio County:—It has afforded me great pleasure to meet so large a number of the Democratic voters and have personal talks with them in my canvass. I am sorry that it has been impossible for me to see all the Democrats in the county. I have visited almost every precinct, but could not make a thorough canvass in some. I want to say to the Democratic voters and especially to those whom it has not been my pleasure to meet, that I have always not only been a firm believer in Democratic principles, but have stood by and upheld them with my vote and voice, and have been an earnest worker for the cause of Democracy ever since before I was old enough to vote. I am a Goebel Democrat in Kentucky and a Bryan Democrat in national politics, and have fought for the supremacy of the principles as advocated by these matchless leaders whenever the issue has been presented. I have been a resident of Beaver Dam for the last 16 years, a practicing attorney for 12 years and am now serving my second term as Police Judge of Beaver Dam.

If the good Democrats of the county think that I am the man to carry their standard to victory in November for the office of County Attorney, and think that I could lend more strength to the party ticket than my opponents, then I earnestly and sincerely ask you to endorse me on Saturday, August 2, and I shall use every honest and honorable endeavor to procure my election, and that of the rest of the ticket. But if you feel that I am not the strongest man to make the race in November and that I would be defeated, whereas one of my opponents would be elected, I wish to say to the Democrats that in that case I feel that it would be your duty to nominate that party who in your judgment would make the strongest fight in November, and your choice shall be my choice, and I shall work as hard for the election of the nominees of the party as I were the nominee myself.

Yet if the Democrats choose to nominate and the people to elect me to the office of County Attorney, I shall give my whole time and attention to the duties of that office and seek to co-operate with the other financial officers of the county in introducing some reforms in the handling of the county's affairs which I think would be greatly to the benefit of the tax-payers and the county.

Very truly,

J. M. PORTER.

To the Democrats of Ohio County:—In presenting my claim for the office of Sheriff of Ohio county I will say if nominated I will use all honorable means to secure the election of myself and the entire ticket. Four years ago I entered the race for Sheriff, when there was no chance for me to have been elected, and fought the fight for the Democrats of Ohio county, but went down in defeat in the Republican landslide.

I feel that we have a much better prospect in store for our nominees, whoever they may be, at the coming November election and would certainly appreciate it very much if the Democrats of Ohio county see fit to make me their standard-bearer for this office. If, however, in the wisdom of the Democrats at the August Primary, another is selected, I pledge my hearty support to the nominee, whoever he may be. With best wishes for my many friends, I remain

In presenting my claims to the Democrats of Ohio county for the nomination for Sheriff, I wish to say that I was born and reared on a farm near Rosine, Ohio county, Ky., and now live on a farm. I, as well as all of my people, have always been Democratic workers and this being the first time I have ever offered for an office and feeling that this section of the county is entitled to a candidate and that same would be of some benefit to the ticket, and from the further fact that I was rendered unable to do hard manual labor about eight years ago on account of a severe attack of rheumatism which materially disabled me, and having a wife and four children to support, I would take it as a special favor, if you can conscientiously do so, to give me your vote next Saturday. I want to now thank my many friends for their loyal support up to this time. I want to ask them to put forth their best efforts in my behalf from now until 4 o'clock next Saturday, August 2d, and I feel that our efforts will be successful.

However, if in the sound judgment of the party, another is selected as standard-bearer for the office of Jailer, I will be found on "the firing line," doing what I can for the success of the ticket in the final race in November.

Your friend,
JOHN G. KEITH.

A Card to the Voters.

To the Democratic Voters of Ohio County, Gentlemen:—I am sorry to tell you that at present I am disabled with a badly sprained ankle, and I guess I will have to give the balance of my race up to my friends to manage. I think I have the inside track for the nomination for the office of Sheriff. I am neither able to ride or walk, so I will have to ask my friends to do me a favor and all come out and vote for me at the Primary. I appreciate your support and hope it will give me the nomination.

Respectfully,
HARDIN ASHLEY.

THE MAKING OF A BALL PLAYER

In One of the Big Leagues Of To-Day.

HIS EXPERIENCE RECOUNTED

First Got Swelled Head, Then Went Down—Was Finally Restored.

MAKING THE PITCHER PITCH

In the August American Magazine Hugh S. Fullerton writes an article entitled "The Making of a Big Leaguer." It is a true story of the development of one of the greatest ball players in the United States as told by himself to Mr. Fullerton. This player, of course, began the game as a boy and passed through all the stages from amateur to minor league teams and then into the big league. In this early experience he became a great victim of the "swelled head," and finally lost his position on the big league team. After many vicissitudes he lost his "swelled head" and got into the big league again, where, to-day, at thirty-four years of age, he is one of the great veterans of the game. Of his final entrance into the big league he says:

"In June, I was purchased for a large sum by the club which then was the strongest in the country. I didn't say a word about money, although the club paid over four thousand dollars for me. The new manager sat down with me in the hotel the night I joined his team.

"All I want," he said, "is for you to get out there and hustle and behave yourself. I've heard you're hard to handle, but I'll take a chance."

"You won't have any trouble with me," I assured him. "All I want is a chance to show that I can play."

"You'll get all the chance you want," he said quietly. "You're in the line-up to-morrow."

"Stage fright! Did you ever suffer it? I did that night. My nerves were jumping and a thousand times I figured out plays—yes, and made them—in planning what I would do the next day.

"We were playing a game against a team which we figured we would have to beat out to win the championship. I pictured myself hitting home runs and making triple plays, and when I awoke in the morning I was nervous, a shaky, uncertain and scared ball player. In practice before the game, everything hit my way I either fumbled or threw wild, as my nerves were rags. The crowd seemed to be sorry for me—when they weren't mocking. It was a relief when the game started.

"I was second at bat in the line-up, on a foreign field and with a hostile crowd roaring. The first man fled out. 'Wait him out. Take two,' said the manager as I picked up a bat. The first pitched ball cut the heart of the plate. I saw it all the way up and knew it would have been easy to hit it hard, yet I let it go. 'Strike one,' the umpire yelled, and the crowd howled. I was cool as a Boston east wind. The second ball came whizzing up, straight over the plate with nothing on it, and I let it hit it, yet let it go for the second strike. Then I settled to hit, expecting a curve ball. The curve went wide, a fast one went high and wide. I figured that the pitcher thought he had a sucker at bat and would curve one over. He came with a fast ball a foot high and I swung at it and struck out. My heart nearly got spiked as it sank into my toes going back to the bench.

"That's the boy," said the manager. "Wait him out. Make him pitch."

"I could have kissed him for those words. I went to short with my nerves steady and my system full of confidence. The first ball

IMPORTANT QUESTIONS OFFICIALLY ANSWERED

By Attorney General Logan Concerning the Coming State Primary.

Several important questions having been raised recently in regard to voting in the coming primary election, some questions have been asked the Attorney General at Frankfort, and following is his reply:

In yours of the 25th you submit several questions to this department in relation to the primary election law:

First—Have any known Socialists, where there is no registration, the right to vote in the primary of August 2d?

In answer I would state that a Socialist is not eligible to vote in the primary. No one can vote in the primary election except those who are members of the political parties that cast as much as 20 per cent of the total vote of the State in the last election.

Second—Can the officers of an election deliver a Democratic ballot to a known Republican?

Answering this question, I beg to advise you that no voter has a right to vote any ticket or for any candidates except for the candidates of the party to which he belongs. The officers of an election should not deliver a Democratic ballot to a known Republican.

Third—When a Democrat presents himself to vote and is challenged, what election officer determines his eligibility?

Relying to this question, I beg to advise you that his right to vote would be determined by the full Board of Election officers exactly in the same manner as the right of a man to vote is determined in the general election.

Yours truly,
 M. M. LOGAN,
 Assistant Attorney General.

Value of Cow Peas.
 Mr. C. S. Templeman, who is a very enthusiastic Farmers' Institute promoter, and a farmer willing to try once any of the latter day methods of farming, stated Saturday that when he laid his corn by a few days ago he planted 15 acres of it in cow peas, something he said he learned at the Institute held here last fall. In planting your corn ground in cow peas it is claimed that you can raise corn year after year on the same piece of ground; each year the land gets better. The other advantage in sowing cow peas is that it makes fine feed and is especially good for the fattening of hogs.

WHISKEY DOESN'T DROWN TUBERCULOSIS GERM

The people who ask fool questions are often in evidence about tuberculosis exhibits as well as other similar places. Not long ago a man decidedly under the influence of liquor went into a tuberculosis exhibit in Kentucky, evidently with the intention of finding some sort of pleasant justification for his personal habits.

"Say, Doctor," he addressed the man in charge, "if a man smokes or chews a good deal won't that destroy all these tuberculosis germs that can get into his body?"

"No, that is not the case. We find that the germs of consumption will live just as readily in the lungs of a tobacco-user as in any other person, and they will be found in his sputum in the same way."

"Well, if a man will drink enough whiskey, won't that protect him?"

"No, that is even worse. A person who is a constant user of alcoholic drinks is rendered more susceptible to the attacks of tuberculosis and all other germ diseases than the total abstainer."

Apparently very much crestfallen, the visitor left and is now compelled to find some other excuse for his habits to render to his wife.

Kissing.

The Arabians shake hands six or eight times. Once is not enough. Should, however, they be persons of distinction, they embrace and kiss their own hands. In Turkey the greeting is to place the hand upon the breast, and bow, which is both graceful and appropriate.

SAM DAVIS, THE YOUTHFUL HERO

Who Gave His Life Rather Than Betray

CHARGE OF SUPERIOR OFFICER Was Entrusted With Important Message, Captured and Executed.

HIS MEMORY WILL LIVE LONG

The story of how Sam Davis, the boy spy of the Confederacy, stood the supreme test of moral and physical courage is one which will never lose its interest nor its thrill to the descendants of the brave men who fought in the great Civil War.

Out of those stirring war times, when lives were held cheaply and deeds of bravery were common, come many chronicles and records of heroes who died for the common cause. But Sam Davis not only gave his life cheerfully and fearlessly for the cause he was serving, but to protect his superior officer.

When the war broke out, Davis, who was a mere boy, left school and enlisted in the first Tennessee Regiment. Two years later, because of his keen intelligence and soldiery qualities, he was assigned to a party of scouts under the command of Capt. Shaw. Shaw was a Confederate spy who was known within the Federal lines as Coleman. Posing as an itinerant doctor, he was able to gather considerable information, which he sent through the lines in care of one of his scouts.

On one occasion he selected young Davis to carry to General Bragg certain papers giving late and important news regarding the movements of the Federal forces. The Union men had become aware of the existence of spies in the camp, and the undertaking had assumed a most perilous aspect, as they were keeping a very sharp lookout.

Davis hid the dangerous document in his shoes, and with Coleman's pass, started south for Bragg's headquarters. On his first day out he was run down and captured by the "Jay-hawkers," the famous Kansas Seventh Cavalry. The papers were discovered, and that night he was lodged in jail in Pulaski. On the same day Capt. Shaw himself had been captured and was a prisoner in the same town. Davis' reports were placed in the hands of General Dodge, the Federal Commander, who twice had him brought to headquarters, where he was urged to disclose the name of the one who had committed to him the captured messages. It was pointed out that his only hope for leniency lay in the disclosing of this information. This he refused to do. General Dodge, strongly touched by the boy's sense of honor and duty, pleaded hard with him, but Davis answered: "I will not tell where I got the information, and there is no power on earth that can make me tell. You are doing your duty as a soldier, and, if I have to die, I shall be doing my duty to God and my country."

Shaw could have saved Davis' life with a word, but his courage was evidently not of the same character as the boy's, for he remained silent.

On November 27, one week from the day of his capture, Davis was executed as a spy. Calmly and fearlessly, without sound of inspiring drum or cheer of trumpet, with no flag flying, with no comrade beside him, surrounded only by an impatient foe, he gave his life rather than to violate his sense of duty to his superior. His last words were: "The boys will have to fight their battles without me." This was his only regret. The memory of this heroic American boy has been honored by a statue which stands in a public square in Nashville, Tenn.

Master Commissioner's Sale. Ohio Circuit Court, Kentucky. Mrs. Mary J. Hardin, et al., Plaintiffs, vs.

Ex Parte, Defendants.

By virtue of a judgment and order of sale of the Ohio Circuit Court, rendered at the June term, 1913, in the above cause for the purpose of paying the debts and settling the estate of William Hardin, deceased, and distributing the remaining proceeds amongst the parties in interest, after paying the costs herein, I will offer for sale by public auction at the court house door in Hartford, on Monday, the 4th day of August, 1913, about one o'clock p.m., upon a credit of six and twelve months, the following described property, to-wit:

All the timber over 8 inches at the stump on three certain tracts of land in Ohio county, Ky., belonging to the heirs of William Hardin, and known as the Trunnell tract, consisting of 122 acres, and being the same land conveyed by Trunnell to Hardin by deed recorded in book 44, page 545, Ohio County Clerk's office; also all of such timber on the Patterson tract containing 122 acres, and being the same land conveyed to W. M. Hardin by Patterson, as shown by deed recorded in deed book 33, page 351; also all of such timber on the Coffman tract, containing 110 acres, and owned by the heirs of W. M. Hardin, deed for which is recorded in deed book —, commonly called the Davis land, lying on the Livermore public road, and all of which three tracts of land lie near Point Pleasant, in Ohio county, Ky.

It is further adjudged by the Court that there be sold all the coal rights and privileges in and to the 110-acre tract above described, excepting therefrom the 37 acres heretofore conveyed by F. O. Coffman to the Green River Coal Mining Company by deed of record in deed book 22, page 559, Ohio County Clerk's office.

The purchaser will be required to execute bond with approved security immediately after sale.

This 15th day of July, 1913.
E. E. BIRKHEAD,
2913 Master Commissioner.
E. M. Woodward, Attorney.

Rid Your Children of Worms. You can change fretful, ill-tempered children into healthy, happy youngsters, by ridding them of worms. Tossing, rolling, grinding of teeth, crying out while asleep, accompanied with intense thirst, pains in the stomach and bowels, feverishness and bad breath, are symptoms that indicate worms. Kickapoo Worm Killer, a pleasant candy lozenge, expels the worms, regulates the bowels, restores your children to health and happiness. Mrs. J. A. Brisbin, of Elgin, Ill., says: "I have used Kickapoo Worm Killer for years, and entirely rid my children of worms. I would not be without it." Guaranteed. All druggists, or by mail. Price 25c. Kickapoo Indian Medicine Co., Philadelphia and St. Louis. Sold by James H. Williams. (Advertisement.)

A Clever Fellow. No right-thinking man admires the dexterity of a pickpocket or the horsemanship of a highwayman. Why? Because each is an enemy to society. You would not mitigate their outlawry by saying, "but they are clever fellows." The term of "clever fellow" covers a multitude of sins with some folk. The man who uses an ignorant man, whether white or black, to do his underhanded work is a scoundrel, though you may write "clever fellow" all over his body in capital letters. The community ought to give him to understand that he is an "undershade citizen." He is one of the men who ought to leave his country "for his country's good."

Land of Earthquakes. Nearly 1,400 earthquakes are recorded annually in the whole of the Japanese Empire, and in Tokyo alone there are, on an average, 50 earthquakes that can be felt during the year, or about one a week.

Earthquakes occur in all regions adjacent to active volcanoes, as in the neighborhood of Teneriffe, Vesuvius, Etna and Stromboli, which are simply the safety valves of a single earthquake district. So also Japan, Sumatra, Java and the islands of the East Indian Archipelago are liable to fearful earthquakes. — [London Knowledge.]

Easy. Who was the first electrician, pa?"

CHINESE REVOLT AT PEKIN RULE

Throw Off Allegiance To Government.

TRADE HAS BEEN PARALYZED Throughout Southern China By Present Revolutionary Movement.

REVOLT WILL BE SHORT-LIVED

Washington, July 24.—Americans in the revolting Southern provinces of China are calling for help.

Washington was notified to-day that Charge Williams, at Pekin, has called upon Rear Admiral Nicholson for a guard of marines from the Asiatic squadron. The marines are to be sent to Kuling, in the Kiang-si Province, which recently seceded from the Chinese Republic.

Martial law was proclaimed to-day in Kiang-si and Kiang-su Provinces, according to State Department reports.

At this time of the year Kuling is filled with Americans and other foreigners. The principal city of Kiang-si Province is Shanghai, which last week threw off its allegiance to the Pekin Government.

It has become necessary to exercise extraordinary police powers in Pekin in order to preserve order.

The Consulate General at Canton reports that the action of the Provincial Government of Kwang-tung.

It is reported in the paper that is called the official organ of the Panama Canal Commission that the canal was practically completed June 27, when the spillway of Gatun Lake was finally closed.

The spillway is at the center of the Gatun Dam and has permitted the escape of the water of the Chagres river during the work of construction.

It is equipped to regulate the water, which is now at forty-eight feet above sea level.

The summit level is to be eighty-five feet, and it is calculated that the required depth will be attained by December 1.

American work on the canal was started May 4, 1904. The failure of the old French company was announced about eight years after it began operations.

Trade is Paralyzed.

Canton, China, July 24.—Trade throughout Southern China has been paralyzed by the proclamation of the independence of the province of Kwang-Tung.

The incident has created a feeling of great anxiety in this city. Stores have been closed and many of the merchants have telegraphed to shippers not to consign goods here for the present.

A great many people have left the city in junks and others have gone to the north on foot. Thousands more have flocked into the Portuguese colony of Macao and into Hongkong. Among the latter are many officials who have retired from their posts, carrying with them millions of dollars in silver and paper money.

There is a strong feeling of resentment throughout the southern provinces against the policy of Provisional President Yuan Shi Kai, but it is felt in most quarters that it will be impossible to resist him long, as he commands a large trained army, possesses money and has the support of the great Powers.

The fact that the merchants of Hongkong do not sympathize with the independence movement is regarded among foreign observers as a sign that the revolt will be short-lived.

To Herald Correspondents.

We print a list of subjects below which will be of much assistance to correspondents in writing for The Herald: Always send us accounts of deaths, birth, marriages, real estate deals, live stock sales, confabulations, accidents, condition of crops, unusual weather conditions, visiting abroad, (not neighborhood visits), social meetings, lodge and Equity meetings, church news, school news, conditions of roads, family reunions, (short accounts), curiosities, relics, robberies, murders, something good about people, anything of general interest.

Accounts of birth-day dinners, whether sent in by correspondents or others, should be short, omitting names of the parties in attendance.

Also, please send in all accounts of deaths and marriages as soon as possible, and do not wait till you send in your regular letter. Be sure and mail your letters so they will reach us on Mondays of each week. This is important.

As some see it, the only way to test one's friendship is to strike him for a loan.

A MISTAKE

Made By Many Hartford Residents.

Many people in a misguided effort to get rid of kidney backache, rely on plasters, liniments and other makeshifts. The right treatment is kidney treatment and a remarkably recommended kidney medicine is Doan's Kidney Pills. Hartford is no exception.

The proof is at your very door. The following is an experience typical of the work of Doan's Kidney Pills in Hartford:

Daniel King, Hartford, Ky., says:

"I suffered intensely from pains in my sides and in the small of my back. Doan's Kidney Pills had been used by friends with such fine results that I thought I would try them. I got them at the Ohio County Drug Co. One box permanently cured me."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

SHOCKING GOWNS NOW SEEN IN LONDON TOWN

The other night I nearly swooned when my astonished eyes lighted upon a little lady whose dress was slit to the knee. She was wearing fantastic lace stockings so filmy in texture that the marvel is how on earth she ever got into them or out of them. Her dress was so tight that she could not put one foot before the other if it had not been slit. It was really a case of the glad knee meeting the glad neck. But nobody seemed to be startled. There is no knowing where the modish woman is going to stop in her revelations.

Not Cleopatra on her galley's deck display'd so much of leg, nor more of neck.

It is this lack of discretion that often makes the new dances so indiscreet. The new fabrics worn by women are like gossamer, and the feminine spider goes about clad in cobwebs. Where is the satin ball gown that used to be stiff enough to stand up by itself? Where are the stately brocades and majestic velvets? The modern looms no longer weave these stalwart stuffs. Where is the ancient petticoat beneath which the little feet were wont to peep out like mice? It is no more. To speak of petticoat government is now an anachronism. — [London Opinion.]

PANAMA CANAL IS NOW PRACTICALLY COMPLETED

It is reported in the paper that is called the official organ of the Panama Canal Commission that the canal was practically completed June 27, when the spillway of Gatun Lake was finally closed.

The spillway is at the center of the Gatun Dam and has permitted the escape of the water of the Chagres river during the work of construction.

It is equipped to regulate the water, which is now at forty-eight feet above sea level. The summit level is to be eighty-five feet, and it is calculated that the required depth will be attained by December 1.

American work on the canal was started May 4, 1904. The failure of the old French company was announced about eight years after it began operations.

Early Symptoms.

"Yes," sighed the bride; "marriage makes a big difference." Her mother-in-law laughed.

"Can one month's experience really have taught you so much wisdom? But, tell me, child," she added, "what has George been doing? Is anything wrong?"

"Oh, no," said the girl; "I don't think anything is wrong!" She hesitated for a minute. "But, d'you know," she continued, "when-ever—when-ever I sit on George's knee now, his foot goes to sleep ever so much more quickly than it used to!"

Great Weekly at a Low Price.

The Cincinnati Weekly Enquirer, a twelve-page paper recently transformed into the size and appearance of a daily, will be furnished in connection with the Hartford Herald at only $1.35 for the two papers. This price stands good on renewals for The Herald. The Weekly Enquirer is an ideal newspaper, containing a big variety of reading and is especially suited to the farming classes. It is Democratic and progressive. This is certainly a low price for a lot of good reading.

AMERICAN GIVEN CHANCE TO RUN FOR HIS LIFE
And Was Badly Wounded—Was Investigating a White Slave Case.

El Paso, Tex., July 26.—Charles B. Dixon, of San Diego, Cal., United States Immigration Inspector, was given "ley fuga" (prisoner given a chance to run for his life) by the Mexican federal soldiers to-day. He was shot in the back and may die.

Dixon was in Juarez on official business investigating a white slave case, when arrested by a federal band, who started marching him away from the city toward the foot-hills where there were recently many executions. He started to run, got half a block away, was fired on and hit in the back.

In a statement to the American officials in Juarez, Dixon said he believed the soldiers, who he said were drunk, were going to shoot him. He believes the negro he went to quiz bought drinks for the soldiers and suggested his arrest. He says he agreed to go to the commandant's office, but when the soldiers headed for the hills he broke and ran. He had on a khaki suit and thinks the soldiers may have suspected him as an American spy. The bullet entered the small of his back, passing through his stomach. Dixon is a Texan.

"Looks Serious" Says Bryan.

Washington, July 26.—"It looks like a serious case. We will do whatever is necessary," said Secretary Bryan to-night, in commenting on the Dixon affair at Juarez. He has called for an official investigation.

Take Plenty of Time to Eat.

There is a saying that "rapid eating is slow suicide." If you have formed the habit of eating too rapidly you are most likely suffering from indigestion or constipation which will result eventually in serious illness unless corrected.

Digestion begins in the mouth. Food should be thoroughly masticated and insalivated. Then when you have a fullness of the stomach or feel dull and stupid after eating, take one of Chamberlain's Tablets.

Many severe cases of stomach trouble and constipation have been cured by the use of these tablets. They are easy to take and most agreeable in effect. Sold by all dealers.

PARCEL POST RATES TO BE REDUCED AUGUST 15

Postmaster General Burleson, acting upon the recommendation of Representative David J. Lewis, of Maryland, the "father of parcel post," has announced that a far-reaching partial reconstruction of the parcel post system will become effective August 15.

The changes embrace the raising of the maximum weight limit from eleven to twenty pounds, the consolidation of the first and second zones into a new second zone, a reduction of rates in the first and second zones ranging from one-fifth to one-third of the present rates, and the substitution of a convenient rate chart for the parcel post map in determining postal rates. No other zones will be affected.

The changes are designed to develop trade between popular centers and their rural trade territory.

Notice.

The ladies of the M. E. Church, South, will give an ice cream supper in the church grove at Goshen next Saturday night. Proceeds to go for the benefit of the church. Everybody invited.

• • • • •

The Hartford Herald has adopted a new rule in regard to Obituaries, Resolutions of Respect, Cards of Thanks, &c., whether written at the behest of lodges, churches or individuals, and that is, we shall charge at the rate of two cents per line for all such articles, except obituary poetry, which will be one cent per word, straight. This is the smallest rate we charge for anything and is only one-fifth of our regular rate. The amount, in cash or stamps, must accompany each article, or it will not be printed. Six words average a line in ordinary reading and every separate character or initial letter counts as a word. The heading and the signature both count one line each, even if they are only a word or two. All obituary poetry, straight through, one cent per word.

Contributors please remember.

A Card.

In concluding my canvass for the Democratic nomination for County Court Clerk, I wish to extend thanks to my many friends for the courteous treatment they have extended to me throughout the country.

I have received the same courteous treatment in parts of the county where I was unknown that I have where acquainted, for which I am very grateful. I have been over the county in a general way, but have not been able to see all the Democrats in the county, but I will ask that all make inquiry as to my qualification and fitness for the office and if you find me worthy, I will very much appreciate your support.

I promise, if nominated, to use all honorable means at my command to win the election in the final race, together with the entire Democratic ticket, and if finally elected, I promise to extend to all the same courteous treatment that I have received in the canvass for this nomination. I promise if defeated for the nomination to give my hearty support to the victorious one and work to carry the entire ticket to victory in November.

I ask in conclusion that all my friends turn out to the primary and use their influence to get out a good vote. I feel that if my friends will be active from now until the primary, that I have the right.

Respectfully,
